BIOGRAPHY

Cacy Forgenie was born in Brooklyn, New York in 1973 and raised in Guyana, South America. In 1983 he returned to New York to attend NY public schools including P.S.132, I.S. 59, John Bowne High School Center For Writing, and SUNY Buffalo as a student of creative writing, poetry and journalism.

In the mid-nineties, after placing his University studies on hold, Forgenie lived between the UK, India and Morocco. During this time he also contributed writing and illustration to UK fashion and lifestyle publications Trace, 2ND Generation, Don't Tell It, Straight No Chaser and Blag.

In 1997, during his second repatriation to New York, Forgenie contributed writing and photography to OneWold, Honey and The Source magazines. He served as editor of the graffiti magazine Mass Appeal, as BOUDICON, for 3 years before contributing writing and photography to The New York Post AP World Wide Photos, UnChin and Poems Neiderngasse. Presently he lives in Brooklyn and contributes photography and video to The New York Post and Nypost.com and is the managing editor of Bingeonline.com.
